L'aspirazione alla verità e la giustificazione pubblica

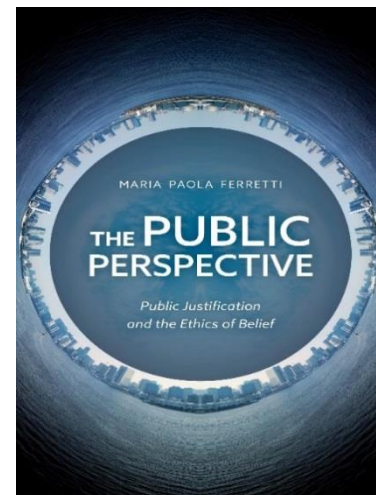

In occasione della pubblicazione del volume di Maria Paola Ferretti

The Public Perspective. Public Justification and the Ethics of Belief*, Rowan&Littlefield, 2019

Milano, 6 febbraio 2019, ore 15:30 - 18:00, Biblioteca di Politeia

c/o Università degli Studi di Milano, via Festa del Perdono, 7

“(…) My focus in this book is on the question of why we should adopt a public perspective from which to assess government action and adjudicate rival claims in society, rather than appealing to our own perspective or even – if we are realists about reasons – to the authority of objectively valid reasons. The fundamental idea is that people who live together and are committed to treating each other with the respect that is due to autonomous moral agents need to appeal to reasons that can be recognized as such from the perspective of each. However, this book sets out to argue that the practice of public justification is possible only where people endorse a common ethics of beliefs, that is, a cluster of epistemic and moral norms that guide the formation and reformation of the beliefs that inform our public perspective. (...) The challenge that this book takes on is to reaffirm the idea that public justification is crucial for a liberal democratic society, and it should be nourished by critical spirit, rather than spoilt by mutual suspicion.
