

Diritti umani e critica del razionalismo etico in Bobbio

MICHELE ZEZZA

Abstract: The paper examines the issue of the foundation of human rights in Norberto Bobbio's thought and his criticism of dogmatic postulates of ethical rationalism. The main objective is to point out the terms of the link between the implied cognitive orientation and the underlying normative purpose, in order to identify the true nature of the methodological approach adopted.

Keywords: Human rights, Historicism, Rationalism, Skepticism, Universalism.
