Popular Sovereignty on Resources. A Gap in Blood Oil's Argument?

GIANFRANCO PELLEGRINO

Abstract: In Blood Oil, L. Wenar defends a general policy about international trade. This policy rests on specific claims about the relationship between popular sovereignty and property of natural resources. The paper takes on some gaps to be filled in the justification of these claims.

Keywords: Natural Resources, Popular Sovereignty, Property, Distributive Justice.
