Escaping the Grip of Perception

Abstract: In these notes I consider the activist notion of perception proposed by Zanetti's book. First, I will raise some questions about the usefulness of the reference to vulnerability as a normative category to understand the effects of distorted perceptions. Second, I suggest to take a look to what is implied by the aspiration to escape the grip of perceptual labels in order to seek the (impossible) status of invulnerability.

Keywords: Perception, Vulnerability, Invulnerability.
